

C O N T E N T S

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Chapter 1	Conception: Nurse-Midwives and the Professionalization of Childbirth	1
PART I: Early Labor Pains, 1925–1940
Chapter 2	Eastern Kentucky’s Frontier Nursing Service: Mary Breckinridge’s Mission, Survival Strategies, and Race	31
Chapter 3	New York City’s Maternity Center Association: Educational Opportunities and Urban Constraints	72
PART II: Active Labor, 1940–1960
Chapter 4	Transitions: New Directions, New Limitations	105
Chapter 5	Traditions: Home Birth in a High-Tech Age	136
Chapter 6	Don’t Push: Struggling to Create a Political Strategy and Professional Identity	168
Epilogue	Afterbirth: Learning from the Past, Looking to the Future	186
Notes	203
Bibliography	249
Index	265	