

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
INTRODUCTION: NARRATIVE, LYRIC, AND TIME	1
CHAPTER 1: THE LABYRINTHINE PLOTS AND LYRIC STASIS OF DON JUAN	23
Labyrinthine Plots	26
Chance versus Choice	32
Ironically Fulfilled Declarations	42
Proliferating Similes	46
Authorial Ennui, Lyric Stasis, and Hopeless Cycles	52
Larger Structures of Plot and the Consequences of Don Juan's Lyricism	61
CHAPTER 2: PLOT ANTICIPATION AND LYRIC ASSOCIATION IN THE PRELUDE	70
Prospective Reading	74
A Model of Prospective Reading: The River	78
Temporal Blurring and Lyrical Effects	83
The Narrator's Temporal Relationship to Events	94
The Prelude's Structural Similarities to Other Texts	104
Changes in the 1850 Prelude	108
The Narrative Value of Personification	114

CHAPTER 3: JUXTAPOSED FRAGMENTS OF GENRES IN AURORA LEIGH	120
Aurora's Changing Narrative Perspective	122
A Present-Tense Intrusion	127
Past-Tense Confusions	132
Implications for Epistolary and Retrospective Forms	135
"Unlike Similitudes"	139
Productive Fragmentation	149
CHAPTER 4: TEMPORAL HYBRIDITY IN THE DRAMATIC MONOLOGUE AND THE RING AND THE BOOK	155
The Dramatic Monologue's Rhetorical Relation to Lyric and Narrative	156
The Temporal Structure of Dramatic Monologues	160
Arcangeli	173
Caponsacchi	178
Pompilia	183
Larger Structures in The Ring and the Book	188
Epic Repetition	192
Alliteration as Characterization	194
POSTSCRIPT: LEGACIES AND LAPSES OF LYRIC NARRATIVE	200
 Works Cited	215
Index	225