

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction	1
Part I • The Studio
Chapter 1 Women in the Studio: Representing Professional Identity	31
Chapter 2 “Why Are You No Longer My Brothers?” The Fraternité des Arts and the Female Artist in Marceline Desbordes-Valmore’s L’Atelier d’un peintre	75
Chapter 3 Sisterhood in/as the Studio: Anna Mary Howitt’s Sisters in Art	97
Part II • Cosmopolitan Visions: Gender, Genre, Nation
Chapter 4 Visualizing Imagined Communities: Lessons of the Female Artist in Staël, Owenson, and Lescot	125
Chapter 5 Revolutionary Identities: Painting and Resistance in Owenson’s The Princess; or the Beguine	154
Chapter 6 Angélique Arnaud’s Clémence : Art, Revolution, and Saint-Simonianism	171
Part III • The Portrait: Romanticism and the Female Subject
Chapter 7 Margaret Gillies and the Miniature: Portraits of Radical Engagement	195
Chapter 8 Brontë’s Portraits of Romantic Resistance: The Tenant of Wildfell Hall	221
Chapter 9 From Margin to Center: Sand’s Portraits of Difference	243

Contents

Conclusion	263
Notes	271
Bibliography	296
Index	313