

Contents

	Acknowledgments	ix
Chapter 1	Introduction	1
Chapter 2	“Every street had its lady”: Working-Class Health Culture before World War II	35
Chapter 3	“We know what’s good for you”: Formal Health Care Provision in Barrow, Lancaster, and Preston	88
Chapter 4	“No fever in our house”: Contagion, Prevention, and the Working Class	145
Chapter 5	“They never told us anything”: Sex and Family Limitation	208
Chapter 6	“With having my mother, I didn’t need any advice off anybody else”: Bearing and Caring for Children	264
Chapter 7	“By gum, we did enjoy it”: Popular Media and the Construction of Modern Health Culture	310
Chapter 8	“The best thing since wearing boots”: Working-Class Health Culture after 1948	347
Appendix	Oral History Informants	365
	Bibliography	381
	Index	393