

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
INTRODUCTION • The Politics of Sovereignty in Postcolonial West Indian Literary Discourse	1
CHAPTER 1 • “Who worked this evil, brought this distance between us?” Sex and Sovereignty in Sylvia Wynter’s The Hills of Hebron	33
CHAPTER 2 • “What you say, Elsa?” Postcolonial Sovereignty and Gendered Self-Actualization	69
CHAPTER 3 • “No, my girl, try Bertha”: Race, Gender, Nation, and Criticism in Wide Sargasso Sea and Lionheart Gal	102
CHAPTER 4 • Beyond Inclusion, Beyond Nation: Queering Twenty-First-Century Caribbean Literature	142
Bibliography	181
Index	189