

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction
PHYLLIS STERNBERG PERRAKIS	1
Part I Doris Lessing: Spiraling the Waves of Detachment
1. "Sleepers Wake": The Surfacing of Buried Grief in Doris Lessing's love, again , Paule Marshall's Praisesong for the Widow , and Margaret Drabble's The Seven Sisters
VIRGINIA TIGER	27
2. Navigating the Spiritual Cycle in Memoirs of a Survivor and Shikasta
PHYLLIS STERNBERG PERRAKIS	47
3. Through the "Wall": Crone Journeys of Enlightenment and Creativity in the Works of Doris Lessing, Margaret Atwood, Keri Hulme, and Other Women Writers
SHARON R. WILSON	83
Part II Margaret Atwood: Doubling Back Through the Labyrinth
4. Margaret Atwood's The Blind Assassin as Spiritual Adventure
EARL G. INGERSOLL	105
5. "And They Went to Bury Her": Margaret Atwood's The Blind     Assassin and The Robber Bride
DEBRAH RASCHKE AND SARAH APPLETON	126
6. Atwood's Space Crone: Alchemical Vision and Revision in Morning in the Burned House
KATHRYN VANSPANCKEREN	153

Part III Spiritual Adventuring by Other Contemporary Women Writers

7. "Mirror, Mirror on the Wall": Fay Weldon's Elder Fairy Tale ROBERTA RUBENSTEIN	183
8. On the Road Again: Aritha Van Herk's No Fixed Address and Suzette Mayr's The Widows SALLY CHIVERS	200
9. So Much Depends Upon a Ya-Ya Scrapbook: Trauma, Figured and Reconfigured SANDRA SINGER	216
10. Surviving the Colonialist Legacy of the Klondike Gold Rush: A Native Woman Elder's Liberatory and Integrative Storytelling Turn SUSAN BERRY BRILL DE RAMÍREZ	241
11. "Soul Murder" and Rebirth: Trauma, Narrative, and Imagination in Shani Mootoo's Cereus Blooms at Night JEANIE E. WARNOCK	270
Notes on Contributors	299
Index	303