Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1

Chapter 1
Thought Enfleshed:
Philosophy and Psychology as Figured in Latin Allegory 31

Chapter 2
Allegorizing the Split Self:
A Middle English Debate Between the Body and the Soul 70

Chapter 3
“The Soul Is the Prison of the Body”:
Pedagogy, Punishment, and Self-Love in a Middle English Debate 105

Chapter 4
Defending the Female Self:
“Sawles Warde” and Sowlehele 139

Chapter 5
Promising the Female, Delivering the Male:
Transformations of Gender in Piers Plowman 168

Conclusion 197
Contents

Appendix
In a Thestri Stude I Stod (I Stood in a Dark Place),
Translation by Masha Raskolnikov 203

Bibliography 207

Index 219